Arizona currently has the highest per-capita rate of new COVID-19 infections, with 64,386 cases and 877 deaths reported in Arizona in the last seven days. Hospitalizations and deaths have surpassed records. Over the last week, the state has averaged more than 8,000 cases a day, more than double the summer peak.

The four important ways to slow the spread are to: wear a mask to protect yourself and others, stay at least 6 feet from others who don't live with you, avoid crowds, and avoid poorly ventilated spaces. The more people you are in contact with, the more likely you are to be exposed to COVID-19.

It is important to wear your mask correctly - over your nose and mouth - which helps prevent you from getting or spreading the virus. Everyone should wear a mask in public settings and when around people who don't live in your household, especially when other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain
